Demand 'True Story' Of Air Power Row

Symington Warns Reds Move Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), who fired up the controversy last week, demanded in the Senate that the Eisenhower administration answer "the one great question . . . How does our strength compare with the strength of the Communists, those who have so often reiterated their determination to destroy us?"

Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), who fired up the controversy last week, demanded in the Senate that the Eisenhower administration answer "the one great question . . . How does our strength compare with the strength of the Communists, those who have so often reiterated their determination to destroy us?"

Johnson, of Texas, said Secretary of Defense Wilson owed it to the people to straighten them out on the question and to see to it that "the generals and the secretaries get together so that the right hand knows what the left is doing."

Secretary of Air Force Talbot 10 days ago issued a release discussing the appearance of new types of Russian warplanes. That led Symington at the time to question whether Russia might not be gaining air superiority.

Since then there have been what Sen. Johnson called "a new rash of confusing statements." He said "there should be clarification as to what is the true story."

The magazine Aviation Week reported Sunday that Russian air advancements have shocked "even the top level and the most knowledgeable military aviation leaders in the Pentagon."

The magazine said some high civilian officials in the government seem to have been practicing "a deliberate deception" of the people.

Before the controversy worked up to its peak last weekend, President Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that "to say we have lost in a twinkling all of this great technical development and technical excellence as well as the numbers in our total aircraft is just not true."

Returning to the debate Monday, Symington told the Senate: Evidence continues to pile up that Communist air power is moving up to us in offensive striking power, and is moving ahead of us in the fields of defense power, production and technology.

"The warning light is on. Only the blind, or more sinister people, will deny that fact."

Symington was secretary of the Air Force under President Truman.

Italian Town Split Over St. Nicholas, Venus Statues

CATELVETERE Valfortore, Italy (AP)—A "Red Venus from hell" and St. Nicholas have divided this southern Italian town into hostile camps.

Statues of Venus and the Saint—one almost nude, the other crowned and gowned in glowing garments—have brought more excitement than the town's 4,000 men, women and children have known for years.

It is expected to reach fever heat next month when, normally, the statue of St. Nicholas of Bari—patron saint of this town that has no cinema or newspaper—is carried through the narrow streets.

The procession is considered necessary to fruitful crops and wellbeing of Castelveteri Valfortore and its people. But will it take place?

The village archpriest, the Rev. Angelo Palmieri, says the chances are dim unless "that statue"—dubbed "Red Venus from hell" by his more vehement followers—still stands on the procession route. Most of the town's married women support him.

But town Mayor Donato Giglio, backed by the liberal members of the town council as well as many of the town's young men, are for Venus—a terracotta reproduction of Canova's famous statue of the goddess emerging from her bath.

QUINCY FARM BOY KILLED

QUINCY, Ill. (AP)—Richard Kahoff, 10, was killed today when a tractor he was driving overturned at his family's farm at Taylor, Mo., five miles west of Quincy. The boy had been helping his father plow.

McCarthy Terms Ike's Brother Milton Unofficial President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said Monday night he regards Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, as "the unofficial president of the United States."

Describing Milton Eisenhower, who is president of Pennsylvania State University, as "more than an influence on the President," McCarthy said:

"He is one of the most left wingers you can find in the Republican party. Luckily, Ike doesn't follow him in all his advice. If he did the country would be in much worse shape."

Linna Denny Dies, First Red Cross Nurse In Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Miss Linna Denny, 51, Alabama's first Red Cross nurse and a pioneer in nursing education, died Sunday.

When hurricane waves inundated Galveston, Tex., in 1900, Miss Denny went to the aid of the suffering city wearing American Red Cross badge No. 46.

She was the first nurse to receive the honorary degree of doctor of humanities from the University of Alabama three years ago. She had laid the foundation for the university's school of nursing.

Miss Denny was a charter member of the National Assn. of Public Nursing.

A native of Illinois, she attended Illinois Normal School and the Teachers College of Columbia University. She spent several years as a teacher in Birmingham and Illinois, and was resident nurse at Athens College in 1907.

She served as a Red Cross relief worker in Poland after World War I.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday. Burial will be in Danville, Ill.

Strikes Inject New Factor Into British Campaign

LONDON (AP)—An atmosphere of industrial unrest pulled Britain's electoral campaign out of the doldrums Monday night and injected a new factor in Thursday's voting for a new 630-member House of Commons.

Behind closed doors, both Conservative and Labor headquarters planned last minute campaign moves. Victory for either side means the right to govern Britain for the next five years.

Socialist Laborites, sensing they were running behind, searched feverishly for a new issue.

It appears likely Britain's 35 million voters will go to the polls with five major points paralyzed by a jurisdictional dispute of dock workers and with the still graver threat of a nationwide rail strike due to begin almost before all the ballots are counted.

How will this affect the election?

It is difficult to make a definite appraisal. But presumably the disputes could strengthen the cause of Prime Minister Eden's Conservatives. Uncommitted middle class voters—the people who swing the balance in any British election—might be frightened away from Labor candidates.

Korean POWs Tire Of India, Ask To Go To Latin America

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Life in neutral India has palled on 43 Koreans who were prisoners of war when the Korean War ended. They appealed to the U. N. Monday to speed their resettlement in Latin America or allow them to return to South Korea.

They also asked protection from "political pressure to return us to North Korea or Red China." Indian officials denied the group had been subjected to any such pressure.

The former prisoners have been in India since March 1953, when they were brought from the Korean neutral zone with Indian army units on the repatriation teams. They wanted to live in neither North nor South Korea.

Eighty-two Koreans in all were brought here and housed in barracks, but 32 elected to settle in India. The remaining 50 have been waiting for two years for permits to migrate to other countries and all but seven of this group joined in the appeal to the U. N. They signed a letter addressed to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and delivered to selected as their future homes.

Anastasia Pleads Guilty To Tax Evasion Charge

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP)—Dapper Albert Anastasia, variously described as the leader and trigger man of the notorious New York "Murder Inc." mob, changed his mind in Federal Court Monday and pleaded guilty to income tax evasion.

The 50-year-old Anastasia, unsmiling as he stood before U. S. District Judge Thomas M. Madden, said he was guilty of failing to pay $11,743 in income taxes for the years 1947-48, as the government charged.

Madden, set to preside at Anastasia's retrial scheduled here May 31, continued bail at $10,000 and ordered the ex-convict—who has faced five murder indictments—to appear for sentencing June 3.

Anastasia faces a possible maximum sentence of five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine on each count.

His first trial in Newark, N. J., ended in a hung jury.

The disappearance of a Fort Lee, Fla. couple—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferri—highlighted Anastasia's recent fight on the income tax charge.

Ferri, a plumbing and heating contractor, was a witness at Anastasia's first trial. Florida authorities hinted the couple may have been murdered and linked Anastasia to the mysterious disappearance.

Charge Policeman With Murder Of Ex-Convict

MARION, Ill. (AP)—A Carterville policeman has been charged with murder in the death Saturday of Edmund Smith, a 39-year-old ex-convict.

Albert Priddy, 63, a veteran of 25 years on the Carterville force, pleaded innocent to the charge Monday in a preliminary hearing before Marion Justice Charles Gilley, who set bond at $20,000.

Smith was killed by a shotgun blast fired through a window in the Carterville home of Earl McGowan.

Sheriff Carl Miller quoted McGowan as saying Smith was visiting him on a weekend pass from Jefferson Barracks (Mo.) Veterans Hospital.

McGowan said he and Smith spent the evening together and that Smith went to sleep in a chair in the front room when they returned home. McGowan said he went to the bedroom to sleep and that he later found Smith's body in the chair.

Donald Holmes, who lives next door to McGowan, told authorities he heard a shot at the McGowan home about 1 a.m.

Smith was sentenced to 1-14 years on his plea of guilty to manslaughter in Gladden's death and was paroled after serving one year of the term.

At an inquest Sunday, Holmes and his father-in-law Ora Tripp testified they saw Priddy in the vicinity with a shotgun about Friday midnight, and that Holmes spoke to the police officer.

Holmes quoted Priddy as saying Smith and McGowan were out to get him.

Priddy was arrested Saturday and is in Williamson County Jail.

NEA Head Pleads For Action To Halt Teacher Shortage

CHICAGO (AP)—A leader of the nation's teachers Monday night pleaded for action to halt the growing "deficit" in teachers and schools.

Miss Waurine Walker of Austin, Tex., president of the National Education Assn., said that to "keep pace with our dangerous competitors" and to meet the needs of a complex industrial society more and better schools are necessary.

She spoke at the annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The nominating committee offered this slate of nominees for the top offices of the organization: Mrs. Rollin Brown, Los Angeles for president; Mrs. James C. Parker, Grand Rapids, Mich., for vice president; James H. Snowden, Wilmington, Del., for treasurer; and Mrs. L. W. Alston, Hattiesburg, Miss., for secretary.

Harry M. Reynolds of Winona, Minn., was nominated from the floor for the presidency.

SIX COMMUNITIES ON LIST WITH WATER SHORTAGE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Beecher City has been removed from the list of Illinois communities with water shortages, the State Division of Sanitary Engineering announced Monday.

Six communities remain on the list. They are Brownstown, Equality, Greenfield, Kincaid, Teutopolis and Williamsburg.

U.S. Calls For Meeting Of Polio Fighters Today

O'Connor Asks U.S. Release Results Of Cutter Vaccine Study

NEW YORK (AP)—Basil O'Connor, head of the March of Dimes, Monday asked the government to "release immediately to the public" results of its study of polio vaccine made by one firm, Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif.

His telegram hinted that those results held keys whether testing requirements of all vaccine should be changed.

Extensive changes could bring long delays, for weeks, in polio inoculations.

Russia's Formal Acceptance To Big Four Meet Lacking

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden said Monday night he has "every reason to suppose that the Soviet answer will be favorable" to the Western invitation for a Big Four meeting at the top level.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov said in Vienna May 16 the Western proposal for such talks corresponds "completely with the peaceful policy of the Soviet Union," but the Russians still have not sent a note formally agreeing to a conference.

Over the weekend the Russian Communist party newspaper Pravda was sharply critical of Western motives in planning the conference. Moscow radio asked Monday if the West would scuttle the whole idea if Eden's Conservatives win the British election Thursday.

Pravda also has accused the West of quibbling about the site and duration of the projected conference. It also has charged the United States with making "unreasonable" demands to include on the agenda such questions as restoring Western-style democratic governments in the Soviet satellite states.

Eden told a political rally in Birmingham the West seeks the top-level talks for only one purpose—to try to "open the way towards better relations between East and West."

Court Reverses Conviction Of 3 UEW Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday threw out contempt-of-Congress convictions of three men who refused to answer questions put to them by congressional Red-hunters.

Chief Justice Warren, who spoke for the majority in all three cases, said governmental bodies "must be most scrupulous" in protecting the rights of a witness under the Fifth Amendment's guarantee against compulsory self-incrimination.

Warren also said that congressional committees, in laying the foundation for a contempt prosecution, must make it clear to a witness that he is in danger of prosecution for refusing to answer questions.

In none of the three cases, Warren said, did the House Un-American Activities Committee confront the witness with a clear-cut choice between answering a question and risking prosecution.

These following convictions were reversed and sent back to U. S. District Court here with instructions to enter judgments of acquittal.

Julius Emspak, secretary-treasurer of the United Electrical Workers Union, which was expelled from the CIO several years ago on the ground it was Communist-dominated.

Thomas Quinn, a field organizer for the same union, who also was called as a witness during the same investigation.

Philip Bart, general manager of the Daily Worker, Communist party newspaper, a witness before the same committee in 1950.

WORDS THAT RHYME

HELENA, Ark. (AP)—Poetry isn't easy for third graders, but Christie Newkirk found a word that rhymed when his class made Mother's Day gifts recently.

The teacher told them to write a sweet little verse on a paper plate, something beginning with "Mother Dear."

Christie scrawled on his plate: Mother Dear Do you like beer?

Tradition has it that red barns became an American institution when some farmers painted their barns red, their houses white and with blue skies, established a patriotic symbol.

May Result In Major Decision On Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has called for a full dress conference of the nation's polio fighters here Tuesday. Surgeon Gen. Leonard Scheele announced Monday night.

He did not disclose the purpose of the meeting, but developments over the last few days indicate that things are building up to a major decision on the Salk polio vaccine program, including perhaps new safety standards.

Scheele said the Vaccine Committee of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, officers of the American Medical Assn., and representatives of the Assn. of State and Territorial Health Officers have been invited to attend the conference.

They will meet with government scientists and experts from the six drug companies licensed to make the vaccine, who are already here.

At the same time, government handling of the Salk vaccine came under fire from two directions.

Democrats called it "40 days of utter confusion," while Basil O'Connor, head of the polio foundation, charged it had become mixed up in politics.

The government's scientific advisers met behind closed doors at the National Institutes of Health here Monday to thrash out technical problems involved in testing the Salk vaccine for safety before additional supplies are released for the school immunization program.

Dr. William Seabell Jr., director of the institutes and chairman of the meeting, said they would probably wait until after Tuesday's meeting to report their recommendations to Scheele.

Scheele's announcement on Tuesday's meeting did not give the names of the AMA representatives and health officers invited. But it listed these members of the Foundation's Vaccine Committee:

Sheppard Lawyers Ask New Trial

CLEVELAND (AP)—Attorneys for Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard Monday told the Court of Appeals the 31-year-old osteopath was convicted "by popular clamor" of the murder of his wife.

The defense wants the appeals court to set aside the verdict of a jury which found Sheppard guilty of second degree murder, and to order a new trial. The defense claims the trial judge, Edward S. Blythin, made numerous legal errors during the 10-week trial, and that new evidence has been discovered which indicates the real murderer was a sex fiend who broke into the Sheppard home.

Marilyn Sheppard was bludgeoned to death in her bed last July 4. This case is of importance "not only to this community, but to the public beyond," said chief defense counsel William J. Corrigan. "It involves the right of a fair trial, the right to be secure from conviction by popular clamor, the right to be acquitted when the proof falls short of the legal requirements."

Bluth was arrested after the death of Mrs. Helen Teresa Meighen, 32, following a Thanksgiving weekend drinking party. The Polish-born beauty was the wife of Capt. Patrick Meighen, Warrenton, Pa., also assigned to the top-secret rocket and guided missile development center.

Pictures Show Sitting Bull As Medicine Man, Horse Thief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Almost every warrior, from Julius Caesar to Dwight D. Eisenhower, has felt it necessary to write the history of his exploits.

And this, it turns out Monday, was an old Indian custom, too. The Smithsonian Institution has brought out the autobiography of Sitting Bull.

The thing that makes Sitting Bull unusual is that he couldn't write. But he could draw, and presumably he liked to brag of his accomplishments. For this is the fourth autobiography of his to turn up, which puts him three up on Eisenhower.

Sitting Bull probably is the best known of all the plains Indians, largely because he was involved in Custer's Last Stand. Actually, Dr. Matthew Stirling of the Smithsonian said, Sitting Bull wasn't even at the battle.

From the Indians' standpoint, he was too busy to be spared. He was back at headquarters making medicine, and if you don't think he did a good job, remember who won the battle.

The latest autobiography was drawn while Sitting Bull was a captive at Ft. Randall in Dakota territory.

Alice Quimby, daughter of Capt. Horace Quimby of the Quartermaster Corps, gave him food and presents in return for the art work.

Avert Fire Scare Evacuation; Break In Gas Line Fixed

MONTAGUE, Mich. (AP)—A fire scare evacuation of this Lake Michigan community was averted Monday after workmen throttled a chlorine gas leak at the 15-million-dollar Hooker electro-chemical plant here.

Billowing clouds of the deadly gas rolling from a broken pipe led to an erroneous report of a fire at the plant's liquifying vat half a mile from the city limits. Firemen said the pink-tinged gas clouds gave the appearance of fire.

The gas line break occurred at about 1:30 p. m. Montague city officials quickly ordered the town evacuated, but only 300 school children actually were removed before the gas line was repaired two hours later. Cause of the break was not determined.

City officials sent out calls to neighboring communities for assistance and asked for additional gas masks for personnel at the scene.

Joseph A. Tardiff, Hooker works manager, said four workmen were overcome by the gas. They were revived at the plant dispensary and two later were transferred to Hackley Hospital in nearby Muskegon. All were reported in good condition.

Albert Lundwall, Norton Township fire chief and Muskegon County Civil Defense director, said Chlorine gas will not burn under temperatures of 1,600 degrees Fahrenheit.

Accuse Bluth Of Raping Woman, Dumping Body

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Solicitor Glenn Manning Monday accused Capt. Marcus Bluth of raping a fellow officer's wife, and then dumping her in the apartment where her body was found.

But in a surprise move at the opening of the trial of the former Redstone Arsenal judge advocate, Manning dropped murder charges against Bluth.

Bluth was arrested after the death of Mrs. Helen Teresa Meighen, 32, following a Thanksgiving weekend drinking party. The Polish-born beauty was the wife of Capt. Patrick Meighen, Warrenton, Pa., also assigned to the top-secret rocket and guided missile development center.

Editorial Comment

HOW TO IGNORE A FRIEND

The two major labor organizations, the AFL and CIO, have displayed a consistent hostility toward the Eisenhower administration since it took over.

It's a free country, of course. But as a practical matter, it's hard to see how labor's cause can be steadily advanced if it be assumed that only one party feels any responsibility toward the needs of the workingman. The Democrats held power 20 years. Suppose the Republicans should do likewise? That's a long time to keep oneself on the outside looking in.

Labor's attitude has a special irony right now, because most union leaders well understand that the present secretary of labor, James Mitchell, is one of the ablest and fairest persons ever to occupy the post.

Mitchell has arrayed himself on the side of reasonable change in labor laws which may be unfairly restrictive of labor's rights. He has acted to modernize his department. His 1954 annual report, written in simple, human, often narrative style, was a refreshing breeze through the jungle of officialdom. His public appearances stamped him as one of Mr. Eisenhower's top men.

Yet labor acts and talks as if he did not exist.

THE LURE OF FREEDOM

Free people everywhere can rejoice with Austria that at long last it has a peace treaty which will restore it to the fraternity of free nations.

Austria has been absent from this company too long. On March 11, 1938, Hitler's Nazi legions marched into Austrian territory, reducing the little country to a mere eastern province of Germany. Not once in 17 years that followed was the nation free of foreign soldiers.

When the Allies crushed Hitler, their armies moved in and replaced Nazi control. There they have remained, in their respective zones, as West and East dickered fruitlessly through the years over peace terms.

Only a sudden change of heart by Russia, evidently dictated by new strategy for coping with increased Western strength in Europe, finally made possible a successful settlement.

Under the treaty terms, all Russian and Allied occupation troops are slated to leave Austrian soil before 1955 is out.

Russia also agrees to restore to Austria oil and shipping properties they had taken over as war reparations. The Kremlin first made this striking concession in a preliminary agreement signed with Austria in Moscow weeks ago. It balked at including it in the treaty, until the West made clear it would not sign otherwise.

That the Reds finally yielded on this point was the measure of their eagerness to conclude this treaty. Naturally enough, they did not give so much without believing they had made important offsetting gains.

As a price they demanded and got assurances of Austria's neutrality. The treaty cannot speak on this matter, but it is expected a separate pact will be prepared for this purpose.

But surely this is not what the Kremlin conceives to be its real victory at Vienna.

Moscow's prime goal in Europe is Germany. Though the Reds loudly said they would never discuss German unity if West Germany was taken into NATO, they already have offered new unity proposals. Germany's neutrality is a key aim. Austria is the model, the lure, the proof of good faith.

Russia failed to block West German entry into NATO, with all it can mean for Western strength. Now the West is on test to show whether it can work for German unity without giving up what it worked so hard to gain. A neutral Germany would be a Germany ever in peril of Russian domination.

Whatever developments flow from the Kremlin's new strategy, we can accept with deep satisfaction its notable by-product—the long-hoped-for treaty of freedom for Austria. A fabled land has found its own breath again, and that is no triumph for communism.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Imagine how your dear old mom would feel if a stranger suddenly hauled off and gave her a black eye on Mother's Day.

Hurt? Bewildered? Angry? Well, this is how the canned hamburger industry feels today. Here its members were, quietly observing National Canned Hamburger Month, and what happens? The Hoover Commission spoils the whole family celebration by reporting that the U. S. Navy has stockpiled a 60-year supply of canned hamburgers.

The resulting hullabaloo calmed down after Navy officials and President Eisenhower pointed out the difference between peacetime supplies and emergency wartime canned meat in barracks, but use vast amounts on maneuvers or in combat.

But the canned hamburger people are far from mollified. They feel National Canned Hamburger Month has been ruined—and that they have a legitimate beef.

"The Hoover Commission has put an onus on our industry," said Gene Garvin, executive vice president of the Claridge Meat Co., which helped develop the canned hamburger for the Armed Forces a dozen years ago.

"My experience with the Armed Forces for 15 years is that they have always been cautious and circumspect in their buying. The Hoover Commission has given the public the wrong impression."

"Actually, civilians buy far more canned hamburgers today than the armed services."

Garvin, whose firm will roll its 100 millionth canned hamburger off the assembly line this week, is mulling over the idea of taking it to the nation's capital and presenting it to the first statesman who will get up in Congress and defend "this fine American product." He feels it shouldn't be too difficult to find the statesman.

The canned hamburger, born in the second world war, has mushroomed into a multi-million dollar industry.

"By government regulation, the canned hamburger must be a 100 per cent pure beef product, except for seasoning," said Garvin. "You can't even put bread crumbs in it and label it hamburger. You have to label it meatballs or meat patties."

Is National Canned Hamburger Month a complete bust? No, indeed. Amid the gathering gloom has shot a sudden bright ray.

"The Army has asked for bids on 1,900,000 more cans of hamburgers," said Garvin. "The bidding date is Wednesday."

Doctor Discusses Blood Disorders of Feet and Legs

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Two disorders of the blood circulation involving the extremities can well be discussed together. These are Buerger's disease and Raynaud's disease.

In Buerger's disease there is a true inflammation of the blood vessels, particularly those in the feet and legs. In time the disease may cause complete blockage of blood flow through such blood vessels. The disappearance of the normal pulsation or beats of the blood vessels in the affected limb is characteristic. It is much more common in men than in women.

Although the cause is not definitely known, tobacco, infection, ringworms, and a chemical poison known as ergot, seem to play a part, sometimes, at least. It has been reported, for example, that eating large amounts of rye bread can cause the disease, probably because this sometimes contains significant amounts of the fungus, ergot.

Victims of Buerger's disease are not all treated alike. The most important features of treatment, however, are absolute avoidance of tobacco, removal of any sources of infection, and a good intake of fluids and salts. In the more serious cases the use of drugs to prevent coagulation of the blood and some other forms of medical management may be useful. Good results also have been reported with a machine applied to the leg which will vary the pressure on the blood vessels something like that of a milking machine. Surgery may be advisable. When the blood supply has been cut off to a toe, for example, the entire toe may have to be removed.

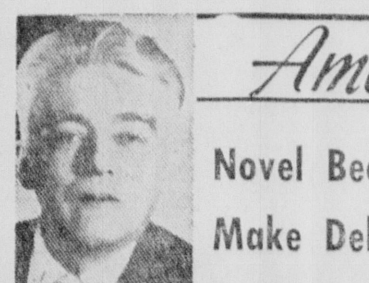

In Raynaud's Disease, the blood supply to a particular part is not cut off entirely but the blood vessels affected go into spasms and contract, especially when exposed to cold. An emotional upset may act the same way as cold but the basic cause is not known.

Raynaud's disease is most common in the hands and consequently the fingers often turn white when put in cold water or when anything else happens which produces a contraction of the blood vessels. Exposure to cold, emotional upsets, and like factors which bring on the symptoms should be avoided. Tobacco must be prohibited permanently.

In Reply To E. S., who asks whether it is possible for a patient with Raynaud's disease to be cured by relaxing and resting as much as possible, it should be said that this will probably not be enough though the relaxation and resting should help together with other forms of treatment.

Although several good treatments are available there is none as yet which can be considered a sure cure. In Raynaud's disease, surgery can be useful, although amputation is rarely necessary. More often surgery is aimed at the sympathetic nervous system with the purpose of relaxing the spasms in the blood vessels. This operation is known as a sympathectomy.

Novel Beef Round-Ups Make Delicious Appetizers

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Little things to eat with beaver-ages before dinner—every hostess likes to collect recipes for them. We were in Chicago recently and dined with Marian Looft, distinguished home economist. In her modern apartment overlooking Lake Michigan she served unusual good appetizers.

Among them were barbecued spareribs, thinly sliced Canadian bacon spread with a little mustard and horseradish and quickly broiled. She told us that 6-ounce packages of thinly sliced Canadian bacon are now on the market.

Here are other appetizers from Miss Looft:

Beef Round-Ups

Form smoked or cream cheese into small balls about 1-inch in diameter. Roll balls in shredded dried beef and serve on a pick.

Braunschweiger Pickle Spread (Yield: 4½ cup spread)

One-half cup braunschweiger liver sausage, 2 tablespoons finely chopped sweet pickle, 2 tablespoons pickle juice, 2 drops Tabasco sauce. Combine all ingredients. Serve as a sandwich filling or on crackers.

Peperoni Whip (Yield: 1 cup)

One-half cup ground pepperoni sausage (2 ounces), ¼ cup whipped cream or evaporated milk, 1 3-ounce package cream cheese, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Whip cream. Mash and soften cream cheese with fork. Add to whipped cream. Whip thoroughly until smooth. Stir in peperoni which has been ground, or chopped very fine. Stir in parsley. Serve in bowl with potato chips and an appetizer or serve as a snack.

Crunchy Braunschweiger Spread (Yield: 11-13 cups)

Polls Show Most People Want U.S. to Stay in U.N.

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Eighty per cent of the American people want the United States to stay in the United Nations. Only 5 per cent think the U. S. should pull out. The other 15 per cent haven't made up their minds.

Only 7 per cent of the American people have never heard of the United Nations. Of the other 93 per cent 80 per cent can name one or more of its purposes.

The major image of the United Nations in the minds of the American people is that it is an organization intended to keep the peace.

In the way of improving the U. N., 85 per cent of the American people think the veto should not be used to keep nonmember countries from joining. 54 per cent think the U. N. should be given control over atomic energy, 49 per cent think the U. N. should be given more power to control the armed forces of all nations. Only 17 per cent favor a stronger world government organization, and only 7 per cent favor the admission of Communist China.

THESE ARE THE HIGHLIGHTS of a new compilation of over 100 polls that have been taken on U. N. issues during the last 18 years by seven public opinion research organizations.

The studies were made by Stephen B. Withey and William A. Scott of the University of Michigan Survey Research Center.

As a result of those studies, it is possible to make a fever chart on how American approval and disapproval of the U. N. have fluctuated since its creation in 1945. Whether the curve went up or down has depended a great deal on world events.

The U. N. started off in 1946 with about 40 per cent of the American people supporting it. This dropped to 25 per cent by the end of the year when Soviet Russia began to throw its vetoes around and it looked as if the U. N. would be a big flop.

AMERICAN APPROVAL ROSE gradually to 50 per cent by 1949. Right after war broke out in Korea in mid-1950 and the U. N. stepped into the picture to check Communist aggression, support rose to 65 per cent.

U. N. support dropped to 30 per cent when Communist China came into the war and it became a stalemate.

Since the signing of the Korean cease-fire agreement, American support for the U. N. has risen back up to the 60 per cent level. It has fluctuated a few points above and below that figure over the past year.

Over this same ten-year period, disapproval of the U. N. as expressed in American public opinion polls has declined from its high of 55 per cent after the Berlin blockade by Russia and after Red China entered the Korean war, to 20 per cent today.

In general, Professors Withey, Scott and their associates conclude from their poll of polls that with minor changes, the number of Americans who have favored getting out of the U. N. and the number who favor staying in have remained about the same over the ten-year period.

COLLEGE GRADUATES AND PEOPLE of high income are found to be more dissatisfied with U. N. performance. These are the people who know more about world affairs, think about them more and have higher ideals on what U. N. should be.

Americans who are dissatisfied with the U. N. record to date are reported as two-thirds in favor of strengthening the U. N. to one-third in favor of U. S. withdrawal.

The long-term growth of American opinion in favor of some form of world organization is noted. In 1937, some 23 per cent of the people thought the U. S. should join the League of Nations. During World War II 70 per cent thought there should be some form of world organization.

During the San Francisco U. N. charter conference it was 80 per cent.

In the past year, polls have indicated that 70 per cent of the American people think the U. S. should stay in the U. N. even if Red China is admitted to membership by majority vote. Sixty per cent favor staying in even if Russia continues her obstructiveness. Forty-seven per cent favor staying in even if the U. N. is a failure.

Here Women Outdo Menfolk, Get Second Chance at Life

If you are a woman between 45 and 65 and have been envying your husband because your main job in life, the rearing of children, is finished and he is still hard at work in the business world, stop it.

You have it from Dr. Robert J. Havighurst, professor of education at the University of Chicago, that "Women in the age group between 45 to 65 have decided advantages over men."

Dr. Havighurst even names the advantages. Let's hear him out. "Women are healthier than men in this period of life. They live longer. Women have more freedom than men in this period. While most men are chained to their jobs, women have a variety of choices."

Those are challenging words. They mean you haven't any business sitting around feeling sorry for yourself because your main job in life is finished.

WHOLE NEW CAREER OPENING UP

You aren't to be pitied, but envied. You are about as free as a human being ever is, free to decide what you want to do with the years that are left to you.

The busy world is right there, waiting for you. What role do you want to play now that you have some choice in picking the part you want?

What are all those things you used to say you were going to do when you had the time?

You've got it now—plenty of time to use as you see fit. Don't waste it in feeling sorry for yourself. And don't waste your precious time by trying to kill it.

Realize how lucky you are—and make the most of your opportunity to do some living for yourself and for others beyond your immediate family.

You aren't a has-been. You're a whatever-you-want-to-

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After eight years' absence from the screen and a near-fatal illness, Jane Withers is making an impressive return to the movies.

The onetime film brat is joining Elizabeth Taylor, Rock Hudson, James Dean and others in "Giant," Edna Ferber's salute to Texas. "This is the greatest thing that has happened to me in years," says Jane, who has lost none of her youthful enthusiasm.

Now 29, she is the picture of health, having conquered the ailments that threatened her life.

"I was in the hospital four and a half months," she recalled. "It was a tough experience, but I learned a lot from it. I met some wonderful people."

"The doctors finally decided I had rheumatoid arthritis, plus some complicating factors such as tired blood and anemia. But I think a large part of it was nerves." At the time, she was going through a split-up with her husband, Texan Bill Moss.

When she married Moss eight years ago, she gave up her career to become a housewife and mother. She gave birth to three children and lived most of the time in Midland, Tex.

After the divorce, she decided to try her hand at acting again. "I started thinking about getting into TV. I decided I'd better know something about it. So I got permission to attend some classes at USC."

"I went for a whole year. At the end of the semester, the school had a banquet at which the man who had achieved most in the movie industry was the honored guest. This year it was George Stevens."

"After the dinner, all of the students lined up to meet him. When it was almost my turn, my mouth was so dry I needed some water. I came back to find he had gone. I was crushed."

But then she heard a voice say, "Aren't you Jane Withers?" She turned around and was face to face with Stevens.

They talked about "Giant," which Stevens was going to make. He said he would call her. He did. "How would you like to play Vashti?" he asked.

When she recovered from the shock, she realized she was being cast as the flamboyant Texas cattlemaster who was expected to marry Rock Hudson.

Rockwoods Injured In Highway Crash

Mrs. Mazy Rockwood, president of the Neat, Condit & Grout National Bank of Winchester, was reported in good condition Monday at Our Saviour's hospital where she was taken after an automobile collision Sunday afternoon near Winchester. Her husband, Homer G. Rockwood, also was under treatment overnight at the hospital for minor injuries.

Mrs. Rockwood suffered two fractures of her right arm, one at the wrist and the other in the forearm. The accident occurred on State Route 106, one mile southeast of Winchester, as Mr. and Mrs. Rockwood were traveling south about 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

The other car was driven by Kenneth Moore, Winchester grade school janitor, who was traveling north. Moore sustained minor cuts and bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. Rockwood were en route to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Herring, and were almost to the Hart school gravel road, when the impact occurred. Moore told Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Martin and a reporter that he dozed off to sleep, causing his car to enter the traffic lane in front of the Rockwood car, a 1965 Cadillac.

The Cadillac, driven by Mrs. Rockwood, and Moore's Pontiac were considerably damaged.

IT'S A PSYCHOLOGICAL FACT: PLEASURE HELPS YOUR DISPOSITION

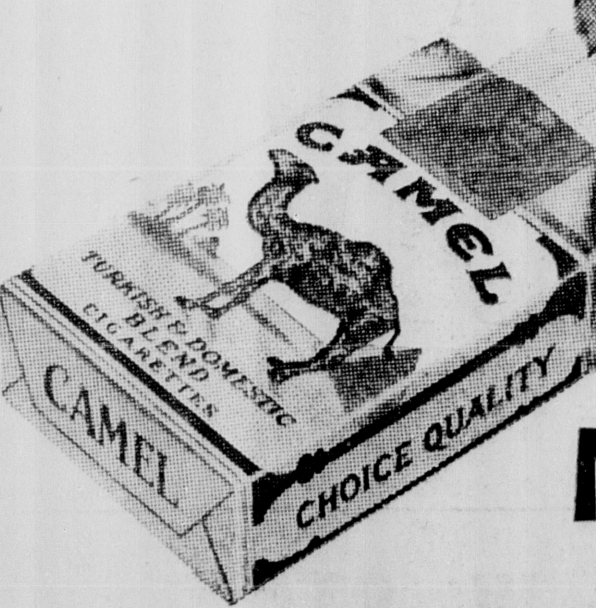

How's your disposition today?

FEEL LIKE ROARING? That's only human. Little annoyances pile up . . . you're cross and edgy — Grrr! That's why, psychology says, everyday pleasures are so important. For pleasure takes the edge off annoyances . . . helps your disposition. So, if you're a smoker, you should choose a cigarette that gives you the most pleasure. And that means Camels!

For more pure pleasure have a Camel

CAMELS are the choice of pleasure . . . and wisdom, too! It's wise to get all the pleasure there is when you smoke. Because everyday pleasures are important. And "all the pleasure there is" means CAMELS, famous for rich flavor and mildness! No wonder Camels agree with more people than any other cigarette! Remember — the cigarette that's stingy with flavor won't give you CAMELS' pure pleasure. So . . . have a CAMEL!

No other cigarette is so rich-tasting, yet so mild!

The final meeting of the year of the Murrayville P.T.A. was held Friday night. Mrs. Cary Andras, president, called the meeting to order. After the business meeting, Mrs. Ogel presented the 7th grade choral group in a series of songs, and a saxophone trio composed of Darlene Wilson, Joanna Hodges and Leonard White played two selections. The speaker for the evening was presented by Mrs. Earl Wright, program chairman. Lee Fuller, Director of Staff Education at the State hospital, gave a talk on the Importances of Family Life on Mental Health. The discussion was followed by a film explaining the effect on a life caused by difficult mental attitudes. Mrs. Susie Greenwalt, who has taught in schools in Morgan county for 26 years and is retiring this year, was honored and presented a gift from the P.T.A. by Mrs. Andras. Oliver McIlrath was the installing officer for the installation of officers for the next year. He installed Mrs. Earl Wright, president; Mrs. Ward Ivens, vice president; Mrs. Kieth VanBebber, secretary; and Garrie Sprague as treasurer. The meeting was adjourned by the new president to inspect an art exhibit by the 7th and 8th grade students under the direction of Dr. Vanderhoor. Refreshments were then served in the dining room.

HI
Have you noticed how the appearance of East State is improving. The old majestic has been remodeled and is to be a new paint store. The pigeon roost along three of the buildings is being replaced. Barney Lewis and his leather goods store is taking over another spot. And later this summer two more of the stores are to be completely redecorated. Looks to me like EAST STATE STREET is growing with Jacksonville.

When you are down along East State Street, why not stop and take a look at our window. See for yourself the fine portraits that Bill makes—see the unmatched quality and then compare with other portraits that you will see. I feel sure that you will agree with me that Bill makes them better.

In the surrounding vicinity and here in Jacksonville there are several hundred members of the AUNT MARY BIRTHDAY CLUB. Briefly this plan enables you to have your baby photographed every birthday for six years and is commended by PARENTS' MAGAZINE. The Aunt Mary photographs are taken by our studio and we must satisfy you and your friends to stay in business. We are not in Jacksonville today and somewhere else tomorrow. During are rest of this month this plan is on special sale and the total cost is only $3.00. So if you are not now a member why don't you join today. Then, too, a membership makes an excellent shower gift—baby shower, that is.

Are you getting married soon? Why don't you let Bill make a beautiful bridal portrait for you. You will never regret the moderate cost in the long years to come.

Last Tuesday we had a lot of Mothers taking advantage of TUESDAY IS TOYS' DAY and the tiny prices for tiny tots. The word is getting around that you will not find a better deal on fine pictures anywhere than right here at the BILL WADE STUDIO every Tuesday. You, too, will like the BRAGGIN BOOK. Why not plan right now to come in this Tuesday. Hope I'll Be Seeing You

Buick's new Variable Pitch Dynaflow is three blocks ahead of the rest of the industry

—Motor Life Magazine

IT seems the experts are just as enthusiastic about Buick's new Dynaflow* as the happy owners of new Buicks with this wonder drive.

Famed Motor Life, The Magazine of American Motoring, says it right from the shoulder in the quote we show above.

This knowing magazine follows up that statement with these words: "It sets a pattern for the future." And ends the report with a simple tribute: "So hats off to Buick for pioneering a feature of tomorrow's transmission."

The reason the raves come hot and heavy for Variable Pitch Dynaflow is simple.

This new kind of automatic transmission puts at your command what an airplane pilot has at his—propellers that can vary their pitch.

He uses one pitch for quick take-off and climb—another pitch for economical cruising aloft.

You do the same in a Buick just by pressure on the gas pedal.

Press down in the normal way, and twenty propeller-like blades inside the Dynaflow unit smoothly angle one way to give you plenty miles per gallon.

Press down all the way, and those propeller blades change their pitch—with absolute smoothness—to give you instant getaway response, or a sudden safety-surge of accelerating power when you need it—and all split-second quick.

It's a marvel that brings far more flexibility to the whole driving range—and a performance thrill unlike anything you ever experienced before in an earth-bound vehicle.

Want to try it? Want to try the transmission that's the sensation of the year—and the surging new record-high V8 power that gives life to it?

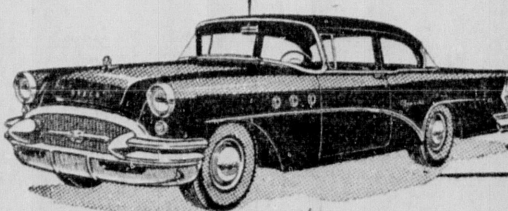

Drop in on us this week and we'll be happy to arrange matters—and show you "great buy" prices that are sending Buick sales soaring to all-time record highs.

To Move Plants Safely Avoid Surgical Shock

Latest transplanting methods approved by experiment stations.

Transplanting a green and growing plant is far different from moving dormant shrubs. It administers a shock to the plant which is fairly compared to the effect of a serious surgical operation.

Most plants will recover, even though the operator is unskilled, but there are a few simple precautions which will increase the percentage of success.

If you are growing your own plants, prepare them for the experience by giving them an extra feeding a week before the operation. In a bucket of water (2½ gallons) hang a cloth bag containing 10 ounces of your regular plant food, four ounces to the gallon. Let it soak overnight, then water the flat with the solution. This will build up the energy of your plants, for the ordeal to come.

The night before the operation, prepare another bucket of water the same way, or by using a soluble plant food according to the instructions for a starter solution. Take it to the garden along with the plants.

It is important to disturb the roots of the plants as little as possible. If they are in pots, the soil will come out in a ball with little disturbance. If in a flat, they can be lifted with small injury, by taking care. Transplants which have been purchased without soil should not be allowed to dry out, and be kept in the shade.

Dig a hole large enough to hold the plant roots, with room to spare, and deeper than necessary. Mix a teaspoonful of plant food with soil at the bottom of the hole; and throw on an inch of fresh soil. Now hold the plant where it is to stand, and pour into the hole, over the plant roots, half a pint of the plant food solution in the bucket. While the water remains in the hole and around the plant roots, draw in soil to fill the hole completely.

Do not prune the roots of the plant in any way, not even to remove broken roots.

Do not cut back the leaves and stem, although this was formerly the accepted practice. Experiment stations who have studied the matter advise that the plant needs all the roots and leaves it has, and will recover faster if you leave them intact.

Pouring water into the hole and drawing earth into the water excludes air pockets, and insures good contact between roots and soil. Do not pack the wet soil; it will settle down by its own shrinkage.

Plants set out in this way seldom wilt but in case they do, no harm is likely to result. They soon recover and begin growth as soon as the shock has worn off. There will always be a check in the rate of growth as a result of transplanting, and that is why plants grown from seed which are not transplanted, will mature faster than those which have undergone this operation. But because you start the seed indoors several weeks before it can be sown in the garden, you get an earlier harvest by transplanting.

Dean Has 3 Lives by Brett Halliday

LUCY HAMILTON glanced quickly at the electric clock in her living room when the buzzer sounded downstairs. It wasn't quite nine o'clock, and Lucy frowned with pleased perplexity as she crossed the pleasant room to press the release catch on the front door of the apartment building.

Michael Shayne hadn't actually said he would drop by this evening, though he had asked her casually if she had any cognac in the larder when they left his downtown office together at five o'clock.

She hadn't really expected him. But she looked just right to receive an informal visitor, she assured herself with a sweeping downward glance as she turned the knob of her second-floor door and heard footsteps mounting the stairs. Michael hadn't seen this hostess gown before. It was a shimmering blue, with a tight bodice and short puffed sleeves, a flaring skirt that fell in folds from her hips to the tips of her blue satin mules.

She fluffed one hand through the brown curls at the back of her head, and put on her most pleased smile as she waited for her red-headed employer.

It was not Shayne. It was a man she thought she had never seen before. He was tall and slender and no older than she, and wore light tan slacks and an open-throated polo shirt of sky-blue knitted cotton. A gray, snap-brim felt was tilted rakishly low over his right eye, and Lucy's first brief glimpse of his face gave an impression of dark leanness with tightly drawn flesh over prominent cheekbones that was almost pain-contorted.

She involuntarily started to swing the door shut, thinking the ring of her bell had been a mistake and the man wanted one of the other three apartments on the second floor, but hesitated as he stopped on the top step and exclaimed hoarsely: "Hold it, Lucy. Don't you know who I am?"

She caught her lower lip between her teeth, studying him dubiously and trying to recall if she had ever heard his voice before.

Holding his right arm stiffly across his stomach and dragging his hat off awkwardly with his left hand, he essayed a reassuring smile that had in it the elements of entreaty and of fear. He stood like that, tight-lipped and with black eyes burning feverishly at her through the narrow crack, giving her an opportunity to look him over and decide for herself whether she would slam the door in his face or invite him inside.

LUCY shook her head slowly and said, "There must be some mistake. I'm Lucy Hamilton."

"I know." The words came from tight lips, clipped and impatient. "From New Orleans. I'm Jack Bristow." He paused a moment, waiting for some response, then added, "Arlene's brother."

Arlene Bristow. A girl who had worked with Lucy in New Orleans before she met Michael Shayne and became his secretary and followed him to Miami. A dark, vivid girl, with a penchant for laughter and for a bewildering succession of beaux that had caused Lucy to envy her in those days.

Yes, Arlene did have a brother. A memory came to her vaguely as she hesitated. An evening in Arlene's apartment. Just the two of them with a light supper cooked in Arlene's kitchenette and lots of girl talk.

A ring of the bell and the shambling, staggering entrance of a young man whom Arlene had introduced as her brother, and who had immediately made the most outrageous love to Lucy in an obnoxiously self-assured manner that had infuriated her.

Yet, there had been lonely nights after that meeting when Lucy had drearily repented her prudish withdrawal from his attempted caresses and unhappily wondered if she would ever meet him again. There had been something dashing and fascinating about the young man.

That was the only time Lucy had seen Arlene Bristow's brother. She recalled tentative attempts to find out something more about him, which Arlene had not responded to. At that time Lucy had gotten the impression that he was a weakling and ne'er-do-well and probably best forgotten.

HE looked queerly drawn and trembling as though on the verge of exhaustion. Lucy opened the door wider and stepped back, saying coldly, "Come in if you like. Is Arlene still in New Orleans?"

"Yes. Last time I heard."

He came through the door with a rush, staggering momentarily though there was no smell of liquor on his breath as he passed within a foot of Lucy. He stood in the center of the room with his back to her as she closed the door, leaning forward slightly from the hips and with his right arm still pressed stiffly against his stomach. He straightened when he heard the click of the door latch, turned and said with an effort of debonair gaiety: "Alone at last, Lucy dear. Have you had a phone call the last 15 minutes?"

Then his black eyes glazed over and he fell face forward onto the rug. Lucy ran to him and fell on her knees beside his crumpled body. His arm fell away from his body and lay inert, and there was a stain of blood on the blue polo shirt just beneath the bottom ribs on his right side.

Compressing her lips and fighting back panic, Lucy pulled shirt and undershirt up from his waistband and found a small wound oozing blood in the soft flesh. She sank back on her heels for a moment, considering what doctor she might reach most quickly, and was disconcerted to see his black lashes lift and to hear his voice:

"No doctor, Lucy. Why do you think I made it here? I'll be okay. Just let me rest a little. If I could lie down . . . and if you've got a drink."

She started to protest, but he placed both palms flat on the floor beside him and lifted himself to a sitting position, his eyes blazing at her with determination and command.

"Put a towel on your bed and let me lie there. I promise not to bleed much. And get me a drink. I just need to rest. Then I'll go on." He groped for her wrist and pulled himself upright and Lucy let herself be persuaded momentarily, thinking it was best to propitiate him and keep him quiet, that she would surreptitiously call a doctor as soon as he was safely in the bedroom, wondering what he had done to be afraid to have a doctor tend him.

WITH Jack Bristow leaning on her arm and stumbling a little, she led him into the bedroom where he sank onto the edge of the chaste single bed and shook his head stubbornly when she urged him to stretch out on the immaculate spread.

"Don't wanna cause you trouble," he mumbled. "Get towel. Lemme lie down few minutes."

She left him and hurried into the bathroom, flew back with a heavy towel which she spread out behind him. He relaxed on it with a wince of pain and then a deep sigh of relaxation. Closed his eyes but caught her wrist in a hurting grip when she tried to stand up.

Beads of sweat stood on his forehead and formed tiny rivulets down each temple. "I didn't do anything wrong, but I'm in a spot where I can't have a doctor see me. Not until I get a chance to clear things up. You're the only person I know in Miami. You've got to help me. Just let me stay a couple of hours and I'll clear out. You didn't answer me about a phone call."

"I haven't had one and you're shot," she said faintly.

FAIR EXCHANGE

Remember when a farmer and his wife would go to town on Saturday to trade a few dozen eggs for a dollar's worth of groceries? And maybe they'd bring a few pounds of freshly-churned butter to trade for a can of "coal oil", some stove polish and a few yards of calico. Remember?

We always consider your financial circumstances. The service must be beautiful but the cost not too great.

Boudreau Still Rates Tigers Darkhorse To Cop American Loop

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The American League pennant race may look like a knockdown dragout fight between New York and Cleveland with Chicago nipping at their heels, but Manager Lou Boudreau of the Kansas City Athletics is not convinced.

Acropolis Favored To Cop 176th Epsom Derby

LONDON (P)—Our Babu picked up heavy betting support Monday for the 176th running of the famous Epsom Derby Wednesday, but Acropolis remained the 10-3 favorite for the mile and one half classic.

Britain's top bookmakers set the latest odds at the Victoria Club where bets for England's leading horse racing classics are accepted. Latest information indicates that about 25 of the 3-year-old runners will go to the post.

Our Babu, owned by David Robinson and winner of the 2,000 guineas race last month, remained second choice at 8-1. Hugh Lupus is 21-2, True Cavalier 100-9, and Daemion, 18-1.

Acropolis is a thick-set chestnut horse once called lazybones because he refused to give his best in workouts. He is owned by frail 93-year-old Alice Lady Derby, whose family gave the historic race its name.

The French colt, Haifitz II, owned by the Aga Khan, hardened from 100-9 to 100-8 following a report from Prince Aly Khan to the Derby luncheon at the London Press Club. "I think my father's horse has an outstanding chance," the Prince cabled. "Haifitz has pleased all connected with him during his preparation and we think he is a horse endowed with speed and stamina."

There are two American-owned colts, Solatium and Bryn. Solatium, 33-1, is owned by Guy Albertini who lives in England.

Bryn, 50-1, is owned by Ralph B. Strassburger, Norristown, Pa., publisher who now lives in Paris.

Never Say Die, a Kentucky-bred 33-1 shot, won the Derby last year for Robert Sterling Clark of New York and Upperville, Va.

Honeys Alibi Cops Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP)—Honeys Alibi, W-L Ranch's hope of cashing in on the $100,000 Preakness, whipped three other candidates for the big race by scoring a length-and-a-half victory Monday in the Prep.

Handled well by jockey Carlos Gonzalez, Honeys Alibi wrestled the lead from the pace-setting Fleet Path, belonging to Duntreath farm, going into the far turn and out-gamed him to win going away.

Fleet Path saved the place money by two lengths over Gee M. Cohen's Chick Thompson, who was six lengths in front of the always-trailing Christiana Stable's Thinking Cap.

Although the small field deprived the 9,563 fans of a chance to bet on the feature, Honeys Alibi's victory was worth $3,250 to his owner.

Honeys Alibi was clocked in 1 minute, 43 3-5 seconds for the mile-and-a-sixteenth, which is an eighth shorter than Saturday's Preakness. His time over the fast track was one and three-fifths seconds off the record set by Noble Impulse in 1949.

GUS ZERNIAL PROUD FATHER

LOS ANGELES (P)—Gus Zernial, Kansas City Athletics outfielder, is passing out cigars Monday following the birth of a 6-pound, 5-ounce son.

The birth was Saturday night by Caesarean section. Zernial left the Club Wednesday night in Washington to fly home. He flies back Tuesday morning in time for Tuesday night's game.

Mother and son are doing fine. Zernial reports. The Zernials have one other child, a 7-year-old girl.

Kluszewski Finally Hits Stride But Mueller Tops Senior League Hitters

By BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (P)—Ted Kluszewski, the famed "Mr. Muscles" of the Cincinnati Redlegs, finally has started belaboring National League pitchers with home runs and base hits in the manner to which they're accustomed.

Kluszewski, a former football star at Indiana University slammed three homers last week to deadlock Duke Snider of Brooklyn for the lead at 11. He also collected nine other hits in 23 at bats and pushed his batting average to .321, good for a sixth place tie with Milwaukee's Johnny Logan.

The veteran Redlegs' first baseman hit 49 homers in 1954 and for a time threatened Babe Ruth's all-time mark of 60. Both he and Snider are all even with the bambino's 1927 pace.

Big Klu has a long way to go to catch New York's Don Mueller, who still is setting a torrid pace in the Don't laugh on the assumption Lou is going to make a wild prediction about his A's. He's going to be happy if they can finish in sixth place.

No, Boudreau is sticking with his preseason prediction — darkhorse Detroit.

"I definitely think Detroit has a chance to win the pennant," Lou said Monday. "They're still a darkhorse but don't count them out."

The Athletics open a three game series with the Tigers Tuesday night. Against the Motor City boys the A's have a 1-3 record this season and that may influence Boudreau's thinking. Also, Detroit is the only team in the league to hold a shutout win against Kansas City.

"The thing that's helped them (Detroit) most is having a set lineup," Lou explained. "They've been able to put their kids in and let them play together and they should improve as the season goes on. A set lineup means a lot."

Al Kaline, Detroit outfielder who in 15 official at-bats against Kansas City has collected 10 hits, is of course the most feared Tiger in these parts.

"Kaline helped them a lot early in the season," Boudreau agreed. "For that matter, he's still playing well but he was exceptional then. Now if somebody like (Bill) Tuttle should get hot the Tigers might really make a race of it."

"They won't beat themselves very often with defensive mistakes. There are some exceptional arms in that outfield and (Harvey) Kuenn is an outstanding shortstop."

Meredosia Downs Jacksonville 9-1 In IRV Play

The Meredosia member of the Illinois River Valley League managed by Bob Gregory defeated Jacksonville 9-1 in a game played on the IC diamond Sunday.

It was good close ball game until the seventh inning when Dosh scored five runs. The visitors added insurance runs in the eighth and ninth.

German Racer Dies In Crash

NUERBURGRING, Germany (P)—Gustav Baumann, a German motorcycle racer who holds 22 world speed records, was killed Friday in a car-shaped motorcycle he designed.

The tall, bearded speedster was practicing on the Nuerburging racing course for a public appearance in next Sunday's international Eifel motorcar race.

His revolutionary shaped motorcycle, powered by a 125-CC German engine, was traveling fast when he lost control and crashed against a tree.

END SEASON WITH 11-3 RECORD

Coach Bob Kraushaar's Jacksonville High School baseball team ended its season last week when they were defeated in the final game of the district by Pittsfield by the score of 4-2. The Crimson lost to Quincy, Cathedral, Beardstown, Feitshans, Carlinville and Routh.

The team ended Central conference play with a 6-1 record which gives them a good shot at the loop crown since most of the other schools have more than one defeat. Other conference teams with only one setback have not played as many games as the Jacks and the loop title is determined on percentage basis.

Blueboys Face Concordia At 3 Today

Coach Al Miller's Illinois Blueboys go after win number nine and their sixth in a row this afternoon as they play host to Concordia of Springfield in a 3 o'clock battle on the IC field.

Concordia is currently undefeated in the Prairie conference and a win for the Springfield nine today means the conference title. However, if the Blueboys win they are still in the running for the conference lead since Concordia has one more game left to play that being with Rose Poly. IC is enjoying a 5-2 record in the loop.

Coach Miller will start Gene Farmer on the mound. The Ashland hurler has won all the games during IC's current five game winning streak and has been the winning pitcher in seven of the eight games the Millermen have won.

The rest of the lineup remains the same with Roger Curfman at first base, Bob Winstead at second, Dick Capotosto at short and Bill Ingle at the hot corner. Don Hazelrigg, one of the two Blueboys hitting over .400, will be in left field with Dick Barnes in center and Bill Kaufmann in right. Kaufmann, with five for five against Eureka Friday, raised his season's average to somewhere in the neighborhood of .350.

Olson will train at his home headquarters in San Francisco and will head east to Asbury Park, N. J. about June 1.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices slipped lower in the stock market Monday in light trading.

The decline extended to almost all sections of the list, and little opposition to the selloff developed. However, selling pressures never were great.

The fall went into the range of 1 to 2 points rather frequently, and some stocks had larger losses. Gains were mostly fractional.

Monday's market action was well within the framework of the general consolidation reaction that started when the market was at its record high levels April 26.

Since then it has been moving lower in a series of declines and recoveries.

The AP average of 60 stocks was down $1.00 at $162.50 with the industrial component off 70 cents, railroads down $1.70, and utilities off 20 cents.

There were 1,197 individual issues traded of which 342 ended higher and 626 lower with 56 new highs and 13 new lows for the year.

Volume was small at 1,900,000 shares. That compares with 2,240,000 shares traded Friday.

The American Stock Exchange was mostly lower on volume of 710,000 shares. That compares with 830,000 shares traded Friday.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Foreign dollar bonds rose in an otherwise narrowly mixed bond market Monday.

The improvement in the foreign section was a continuation of last week's trend. Most observers attribute the gains to the brightening world political climate.

U. S. government bonds fluctuated narrowly in the highly selective dealings.

"Big Board" volume amounted to $3,854,000 par value compared with $3,120,000 Friday and $3,769,000 a week ago.

ADVERTISE—IT PAYS

RYE SHOWS STRENGTH, OTHER GRAINS LOSE

By WILLIAM FERRIS
CHICAGO (AP)—Rye gave the only display of strength in the grain list Monday, advancing as much as 2 cents while just about everything else declined.

Losses were heaviest in soybeans and corn as the Midwest, which grows much of these commodities, received beneficial rains over the week end. Wheat eased fractionally and oats were a shade lower. Dealings proceeded at a slow pace in all pits.

Wheat closed 1/4-1/2 lower, corn 3/4-1/2 lower, oats 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, rye 1/4 to 2 cents higher, soybeans 3/4-1/2 lower and lard 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds lower.

The strength in rye was based entirely on news, available last Friday, that the Tariff Commission would make a study to see if import restrictions should be continued.

Rains in the Midwest over the week end evidently convinced holders of corn in the country that they should let go of their grain. At any rate, corn purchases on a so arrive basis were unusually large at 130,000 bushels. Cash corn receipts totaled 164 cars and prices eased.

The rains also appeared to be influential in causing some selling in soybeans although visible supply of beans continued to decrease. It was down 11,000 bushels last week and now totals 1,501,000 bushels compared with 6,906,000 a year ago.

"Although farmers still hold large stocks of soybeans," the Baldwin Elevator Co. said, "they have been far more concerned in getting another crop planted than in selling the beans they have on hand."

Ike: GOP Applying Past Experiences To Coming Events

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Monday night the Republican party may be a minority party on a statistical basis, but that it is not expounding a minority doctrine in upholding principles of the founding fathers and the rights of "free Americans."

"We are not trying to go back to horsecars," Eisenhower said. "We are not trying to fly to Mars."

He said the Republicans are trying to advance the interests of a prosperous America by applying the experience of the past to problems of the future.

The chief executive spoke informally at a GOP "kickoff for 1956 dinner." A crowd estimated by party officials at 1,600 gave the President a ringing chant of, "We want Ike."

Eisenhower grinned broadly and voiced his appreciation of the welcome, but he gave no clues of his own intentions for next year. He did say that there are dozens of leaders within the party of a caliber and age of Vice President Nixon who can bring dedicated service to the GOP. Nixon is 42.

Other top administration speakers at the dinner said the Eisenhower administration has brought the nation prosperity in a "new atmosphere of peace."

Eisenhower said he firmly believes the GOP is "the finest organism we have" through which the electorate can preserve the kind of country it wants, in which every man, woman and child can be "proud to be an American."

"We have been told," Eisenhower said, "that the Republican party is a minority party, and I suppose by statistical records that is true. But it is not true that the doctrine I have been expounding is minority thinking in this country, not by any means."

Applause rang through the chamber—a ballroom at the Sheraton Park Hotel.

Just as Eisenhower commented at one point that it was inspiring that the dinner was brought about principally by women, a big Republican elephant standing on a "peace and prosperity" platform fell from the ceiling and hit a woman on the head.

She was not identified, and apparently was not seriously hurt.

Maj. Richard Bong U. S. Ace Of Aces, Memorial Unveiled

POPLAR, Wis. (AP)—After 10 years of community effort, Poplar has opened a proper memorial to its most famous son and the nation's ace of aces, Maj. Richard Ira Bong.

Dedicated at a simple but impressive ceremony Sunday was a $115,000 gymnasium-auditorium-classroom addition to the town's two-story elementary school.

In one of its rooms are displayed more than 40 medals, ribbons, citations and badges—topped by the Medal of Honor—earned by Bong during a military career in which he shot down at least 40 Japanese aircraft.

Bong died in a jet plane accident near Burbank, Calif., Aug. 6, 1945—the day the first atomic bomb exploded over Hiroshima.

In the schoolyard, a World War II P-38 fighter plane—a Lockheed Lightning of the type in which Bong flew to fame—stands on tall steel pylons at a low-level attack angle.

The airman's mother, called on to unveil the plane, tugged at a canvas sheet over the P-38's cockpit while her seven younger children—Dick was the eldest of eight—looked on.

"I can't get it down," Mrs. Bong said, and her husband Carl stepped to her side. The white-haired farmer gave one muscular pull and the P-38 stood clear.

Gen. George Kenney, top air commander of WORLD WAR II in the Pacific, told some 3,000 persons at the ceremony that Bong will hold the title of ace of American aces "for all time."

"With the weapons that man possesses today, no war of the future will last long enough for any pilot to run up a score of 40 victories again," he said.

Springfield Muny Opera Tryouts To Be Held May 28

Tryouts will be held next Saturday, May 28, for parts in the three productions of the 1955 Springfield Municipal Opera season. Singers, dancers, and actors will audition at the Masonic Temple in Springfield for Walter S. Russell, producer-director, and his staff.

Singers and actors may report any time between 1:00 and 5:00 p.m., and from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. Dancers will audition from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. only. Singers should provide their own sheet music, but an accompanist will be on hand throughout the audition periods.

The season's schedule, opening on July 1 for six week-ends of "music under the stars" at Lake Springfield, will include "Kiss Me, Kate," "New Moon," and "Annie Get Your Gun."

There are many roles in this season's shows which will give people who have always wanted to take part in a theatrical production an opportunity to get behind the footlights. All three musicals have large casts and require a variety of talent. While there will be a demand for young singers and dancers, there are many parts for the "senior citizens."

Assisting Russell with tryouts will be Harry Farberman, musical director, and Miss Mildred M. Caskey, choreographer.

Turner, Johns Hopkins University; and Dr. Richard Shope, Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

Scheele has promised to make known his decisions on the program "as soon as possible." A halt in the vaccination program was recommended 15 days ago after some children came down with polio following their inoculations.

The Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee met Monday another aspect of the antipolio program—control of the vaccine's distribution after fresh supplies have been tested and approved for use.

There was a two-hour discussion behind closed doors.

Too Young To Stop

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Mathilda Maas is 70 and must retire on pension, the state law says. But she'll continue her 30-year nursing career at Chicago State Hospital on an unsalaried basis, with permission of Dr. Otto L. Bettag, state welfare director.

Why?

"It has been more than a job," said the 93-pound woman. "It has been my life."

Now supervising nurse on the 3-11 p.m. shift, she started work at the hospital the day after graduation in 1925.

Mother Reunited With Son Not Seen For 23 Years

CHICAGO (AP)—A mother and a son she had not seen in 23 years have had a reunion.

The mother is Mrs. Margaret Stanton, 40, who now lives in Chicago. The son is Forrest Moore, 25, who now lives in Buffalo, Iowa.

When the mother's earlier marriage ended in divorce in 1932 in Davenport, Iowa, she placed her six sons, 1 to 10 years old in the Soldiers' Orphans' Home.

One of the sons, then named Merle, was adopted, and, unknown to the mother, became Forrest Moore.

The mother married Earl Stanton in 1936, and the other five sons rejoined her.

When Forrest was 12, he was told of his adoption. He began a search for his mother. Forrest took his plea for information to a Cedar Rapids, Iowa, radio station last week. It was heard by a brother, Ralph, who now lives in Mount Vernon, Iowa. Ralph made arrangements for the reunion.

Presbyterians OK Plan To Ordain Women Ministers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Presbyterians Monday approved a proposal to ordain women as ministers and criticized what they call a Roman Catholic "trend to exalt the figure of the Virgin Mother."

The 167th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America approved the women-preachers proposal by a standing vote. The preponderance in favor appeared about three or four to one. The proposal now goes to the church's 256 presbyteries, or local groups, for a final vote.

Approval by the 955 voting delegates followed lively debate. Proponents declared, "The Bible teaches 'in Christ Jesus there is neither male nor female.'" Opposition arguments included: 1. Women are confused as to their intended role in life and 2. A woman couldn't give a church the strong leadership it needs.

The statement critical of the Catholics was adopted by an "aye" vote, with no "noes" heard. There was no debate.

Stratton Signs 11 Bills Into Law

* SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Stratton today signed into law 11 bills, including one permitting old age pension recipients to supplement their income provided federal regulations are changed to allow this.

Under the new law, pensioners would suffer no deduction in their grant if income from other sources was $50 or less a month.

The Illinois Public Aid Commission says an amount equal to any outside income now received is deducted from a pensioner's grant. This rule will apply despite the new law unless federal regulations are revised.

Other legislation approved by the governor:

Authorizes poll watchers to serve at primaries in any precinct or ward in their county of residence.

Provides for a rise from 22 1/2 to 26 1/2 cents on each $100 of assessed property valuation in the Chicago Park District's corporate fund tax rate for 1956, and sets the limit a 26 cents for 1957 and hereafter.

Reduces the interest rate to be paid upon redemption of property sold at tax foreclosure sales.

Two Injured In Traffic Wreck North Of City

Two men were taken to Passavant Area hospital Monday afternoon suffering from injuries they received in a traffic accident five miles north of Jacksonville on U. S. Route 67.

Gerald Hannel, 28, of Ashland, sustained a fractured left ankle, cuts and bruises.

Thomas Behen, 1609 Georgia street, Springfield, has possible chest injuries, lacerations and bruises.

The accident occurred about 1 o'clock. State Patrolman Vasconcellos was called to the scene.

Take Billboard Regulation Out Of Demo Road Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—At the insistence of Sen. George (D-Okla.), the Senate Monday took out of the Democrats' highway construction bill a section to provide for regulation of billboards.

George said he had no objection to states controlling the use of billboards. But, he said, the federal government had no business acquiring advertising rights up to 500 feet on each side of the right-of-way of a 40,000-mile interstate system of superhighways.

That is an invasion of states' rights, the veteran Georgian declared.

The Senate promptly struck the provision from the measure, with the consent of Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore.). Neuberger said he had proposed the idea of controlling the billboards but said the disputed language in the bill had been phrased by the Bureau of Public Roads, not by him.

Four Hurt In Pike County Wreck; Judge O. D. Gicker Serious

PITTSFIELD—Four persons were injured Monday morning one mile west of Pittsfield on U. S. Route 36 at the weighing station, the scene of many serious and several fatal accidents during the past few years.

A collision of two cars caused injuries to 74 year old Judge O. D. Gicker of Pittsfield and Mrs. Merle McGlassen, 22, and her two small daughters, Teryle Diane, four and Debra Jean, 2½ years.

Mrs. Etta Bell, Former Resident Of Greene, Dies

ROODHOUSE—Relatives here received word of the death of Mrs. Etta Bell at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Blackwell, in Isabel, Kans., at 11:30 a.m. Friday, after an extended illness.

Mrs. Bell, the former Etta Taylor, eldest child of the late Perry and Elizabeth Moore Taylor, was born in Greene County August 15, 1875. At the age of 15 she married Thomas Ira Bell of Mt. Sterling, who preceded her in death four years ago.

The Bells lived in Roodhouse some time before moving to Kansas where Mr. Bell operated a wheat ranch until his retirement several years ago.

Among the surviving children are Mrs. Geo. Howard of Lincoln and Will Bell of Coffey. There are a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren; also three brothers, John P. Taylor and Sam T. Taylor of Roodhouse and Henry Taylor of Manchester; three sisters, Mrs. Olive Adams, Mrs. Alma Dobbs of Roodhouse, and Mrs. Tremmel of Mt. Sterling. Mrs. Bell has a number of nieces and nephews in this community.

Funeral services were held at Isabel, Kans., and interment made in the cemetery there.

Carrollton Girl Named For State G.A.A. Honors

CARROLLTON—Miss Helen Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ross, was the first girl to receive the state Girl's Athletic Association award in the Carrollton Community Unit High School and announcement of same was made Thursday evening at the GAA banquet held in the high school gymnasium with the members of the school faculty, girls who participated in sports of any type and members of the Girls Athletic Association of the school in attendance.

The speaker of the evening was Olin Stead, the superintendent of the Carrollton Community Unit school district who complimented Miss Omelson and her group of girls for their outstanding work in athletics during the year and stressed the need of such a program in the school.

Squirrel Attacks Woman On Porch; Killed By Police

An old red squirrel that had been a pet in the neighborhood suddenly turned vicious Sunday morning, attacking a woman and biting her left hand and leg.

Mrs. Ray Galbraith of Elgin, Ill., visiting at the home of her father, William Kitchen, 807 South Church street, was the victim of the attack. She told police she had been feeding the squirrel, but that it suddenly bit and clawed her. The squirrel also jumped on a window screen and chewed it.

Fearing the animal had rabies, members of the family called the police department. Officers Cloyd Wilson and Charles Runkel searched for some time in trees and bushes surrounding the home. They were joined by Chief Ike Flynn, who spotted the squirrel and shot it with a rifle.

The head was taken to the Henry Animal Clinic, and will be sent to the state laboratories at Springfield for analysis.

Water Conservation Ordinance, Relic Of Dry Years, Repealed

A water conservation ordinance which guarded Jacksonville's depleted supply during the drought, but which is no longer needed, was repealed by the city council last night.

The rapid progress in construction of the $2,500,000 transmission line from the Illinois, plus a series of spring rains, prompted the council to wipe the old ordinance from the books, although it was suspended last October.

Jacksonville citizens can now look back upon the repealed ordinance as a bad dream—but a restriction that was highly necessary during the prolonged emergency when at one stage saw impounded water dwindle to an estimated 125 day supply.

N. J. Butler, superintendent of the water, light and sewer department, recommended the Coup de grace for all legislation restricting use of water, even though it is no longer effective. Action followed quickly after motions by Alderman Sims and McHaston.

Mayor Hoagland recalled that the restrictive ordinance was adopted in the summer of 1953, when the city was faced by a severe emergency which threatened to dry up its water supply. He said the building of the pipe line to the river, a project approved by citizens at a referendum last May, has attracted national attention, and even more—the water department yesterday received a request from New Zealand for data about how Jacksonville puts its project into motion.

The level of Lake Jacksonville is 11 feet, 1 and three-fourths inches under the spillway, Alderman Goodey reported, but that is 18 inches higher than this time last year. Lake Mauvassierre also is filled.

Alderman Rowe commented on the present condition of the water supply, which has an unpleasant odor and taste. Supt. Butler of the water department then gave an explanation of what he called a seasonal change in the lake, where chemical actions set in with the arrival of warm weather.

Four tons of copper sulphate have been scattered in the lake at a cost of $1,200, and the use of powdered charcoal has been increased to combat the condition. Butler said. He estimated that the turnover of water will last only a few more days, and would disappear sooner should the community get a good rain.

Fill Swimming Pool; Open To Public First Time Next Saturday

Filling the Nichols park swimming pool with 550,000 gallons of water was completed at 12:40 o'clock Sunday afternoon, without any of the problems incident to the same job last year when the city was in the midst of a water shortage.

Spring rains and the 23 mile river pipe line, now moving toward the later stages of construction, have removed all doubt from the use of more than a half million gallons to fill the pool.

Water was turned into the big pool at 4:15 p.m. Saturday, and gushed continuously until 12:40 p.m. Sunday when the valve was closed.

Supt. John McGee and other park employees have been busy for several weeks in preparation for opening the pool. A new concrete bottom was built in the pool, and improvements have been made at the bath house and concession stand.

The first "customers" at the pool will be Jacksonville High school students who will hold their annual picnic Friday, May 27, at the park. The pool will be open to the public on Saturday, May 28, at 1 p.m., and remain open until 9 o'clock at night.

Announce Slavs Will Follow Policy Of Independence

WASHINGTON — Yugoslavia has pledged it will stick to its "firm independence" despite Marshal Tito's decision to meet with Russia's top leaders.

The State Department reported the pledge only a few minutes after Secretary Dulles met with Yugoslavia's ambassador Monday. Backing up the State Department's announcement, Yugoslav Ambassador Leo Mates told reporters: "There will be no changes in our foreign policy as a result of the visit to Belgrade."

Tito's Yugoslavia, while a Communist nation, has been at odds with Moscow since 1948.

Mates said the Yugoslav government has given its assurance "by diplomatic contact" in Belgrade with the American ambassador. He declined to elaborate but said it is "very decidedly" Yugoslavia's policy to "stick to its independent policy of recent years."

Both the State Department's and Mates' comments appeared to be designed to ease concern in the West over the scheduled visit later this month to Belgrade of Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev.

Third Of Dockers Stop Work At Four Big British Ports

LONDON — More than a third of the dockers at four major British ports stopped work today in an interunion dispute that may damage the nation's vital export trade on the eve of the May 26 general election.

Strike pickets were out in London, Manchester, Hull and the Liverpool-Birkenhead area. About 60,000 dockers are employed in those ports.

At least 80 ships were idle or undermanned as the 17,000-strong National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers Union (NASDU) started the strike to back up claims for full recognition as a bargaining agent with port employers.

The rival Transport and General Workers Union (TGWU), which claims the bulk of the nation's nearly 100,000 dockworkers, ordered its men to continue working, but first indications were that the NASDU walkout had idled thousands of TGWU members as well.

Odor Of Water Caused By Lake Chemical Action

Jacksonville had another water problem Monday that involved taste, rather than supply. Large numbers of citizens were complaining of the taste and smell of the water.

Officials of the city water department said the unpleasant taste is seasonal, due to chemical changes that take place in reservoirs at this time of year. The decay of plant and animal organisms in the lake is combated with copper sulphate, which has been distributed several times this spring.

N. J. Butler, superintendent of the department, said a good rain would do more to improve conditions than anything else. But if it doesn't rain within the next few days, the odor which now rises from the water will gradually disappear, according to past experience.

Periodic tests show that the water is safe to drink.
